BARTON COUNTY COMMUNITY

JUNIOR COLLEGE

VOLUME I

1970

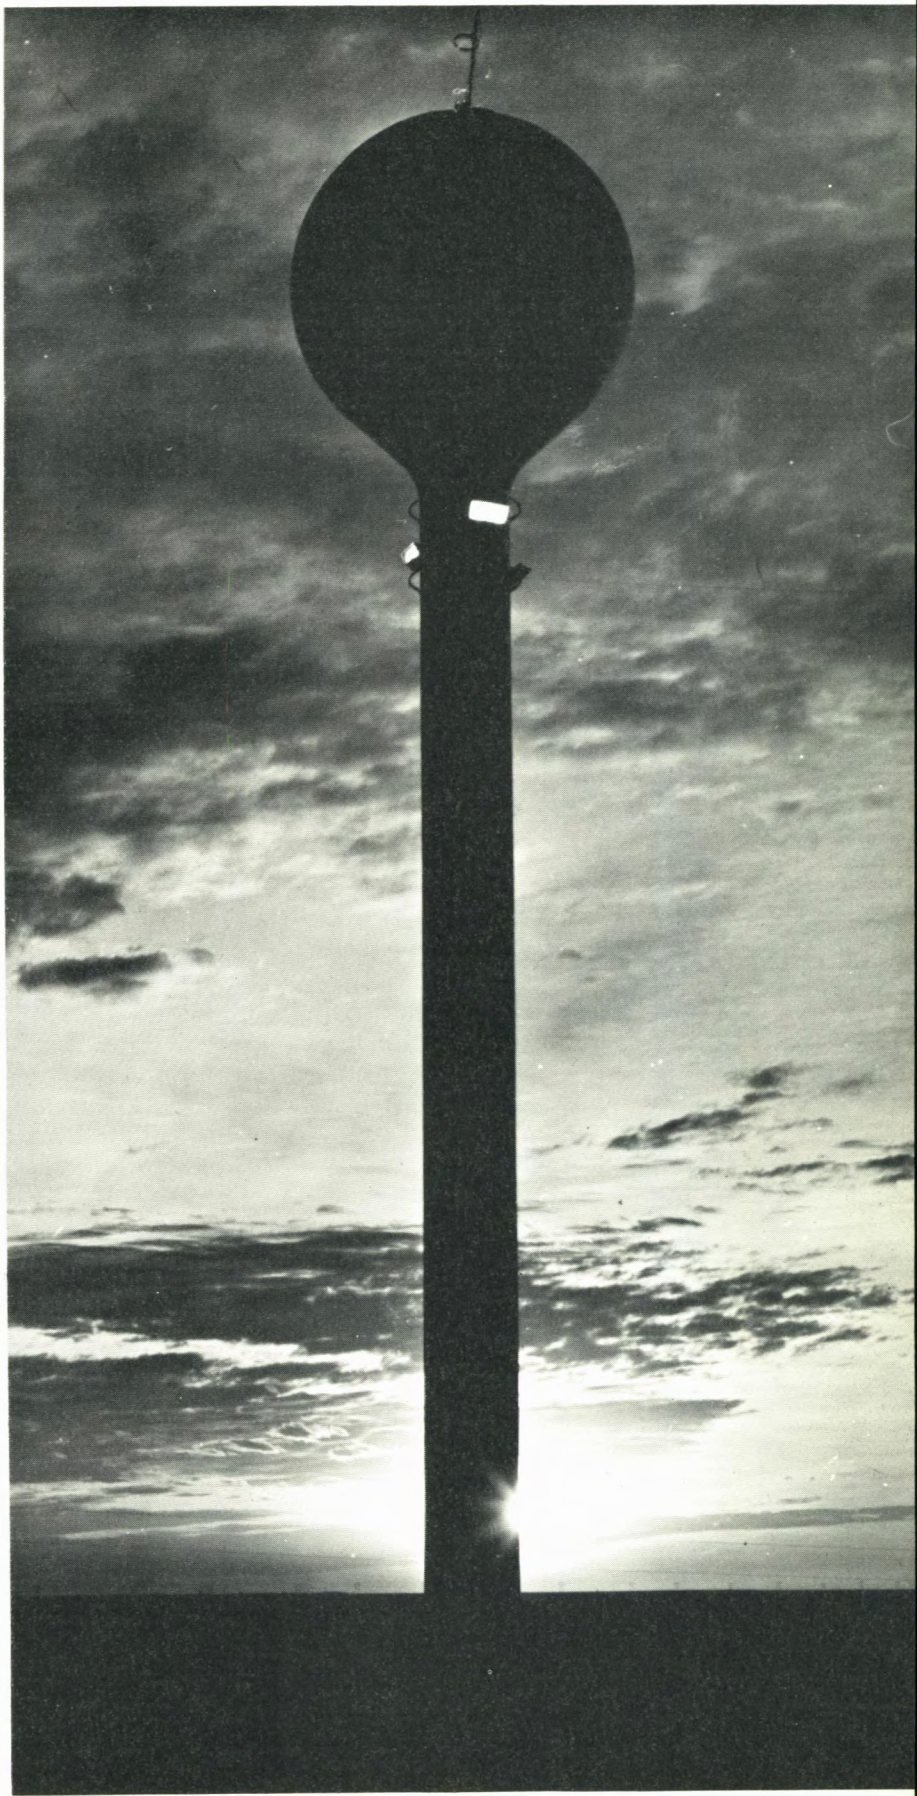

This is the dawning of the age . . .

for the people involved with the Barton County Community College.

Students discovered new and broader horizons on the ultra-modern, expanding campus, where they found social activities and educational opportunities waiting for them.

Nearly all aspects of college life were available to the students; organizations and activities at the college were many and varied.

A dream becomes reality

The expanding campus of Barton County Community Junior College is located at Bissell Point, overlooking the Arkansas River Valley. It is the realization of the dream of the residents of Barton County who voted to establish the community Junior College early in 1965.

The library, the science-math hall, and the applied science hall were the first three buildings constructed on campus. The groundbreaking ceremony, which began the official construction of

for Barton County

the Junior College, was held November 21, 1967, with Frank Carlson, former Kansas Senator, officiating.

The landscaping, architecture, and curriculum of the Barton College were formed with the help of top junior college consultants throughout the nation. Therefore, the very latest in equipment is featured at the Junior College. Closed-circuit television, a study-skills center, tapes, films, and video-tapes, are all available for student functions

The Constitution of the Barton County Community Junior College was the greatest undertaking of the Student Senate, which is made up of thirteen student members with two faculty advisers. Though the constitution was foremost in their plans, the Senate also accomplished many useful projects. The acquisition of a flagpole, the sponsoring of dances and other recreational activities, an Inaugural Ball, and the hosting of the State Junior College Meeting, are just a few of the first-year accomplishments of the Student Senate.

Sigma Phi Omega: First campus fraternity

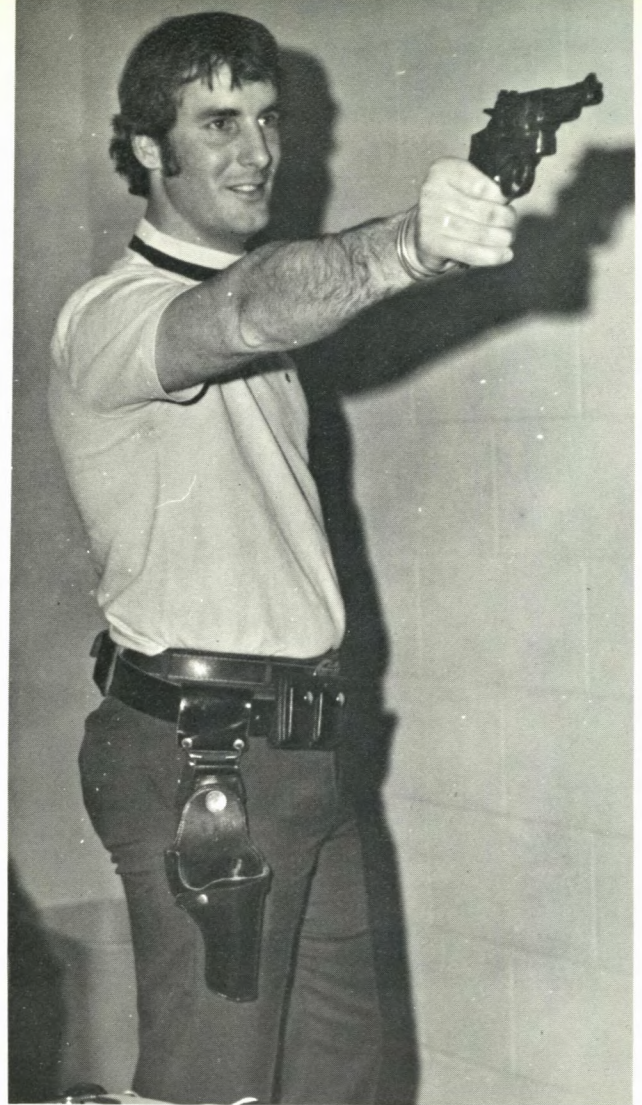

A very active campus organization is the thirteen-member Sigma Phi Omega, the local chapter of Lambda Alpha Epsilon national law enforcement fraternity. This group was organized in November of 1969 with the purpose of advancing the professional administration of criminal justice.

It tries to promote better public understanding of the administration of criminal justice, to foster through fraternal contact greater understanding between agencies and departments in criminal justice fields, and to elevate the standards of personnel, training, procedure, and ideals in areas of administration of criminal justice.

The fraternity sponsors a black belt karate course for criminal justice majors or minors, a firing range and an FBI firing course, and a dog testing program for the U.S. Air Force's sentry dog training course.

Karate skills practiced by justice students

A black belt karate course, sponsored by the college chapter of Lambda Epsilon, is offered to any student who is a member of the fraternity and is majoring or minoring in criminal justice.

The purpose of learning karate is to build confidence in future police officers and to develop the self-discipline that is so important to a police officer, according to Professor of Criminal Justice, Dennis C. Elam, himself a member of the class.

The class is taught by a criminal justice student in the evening division, Dwight Boese of Claflin. Boese, who holds a first degree black belt, taught junior high school in Claflin during the 1969-70 school year.

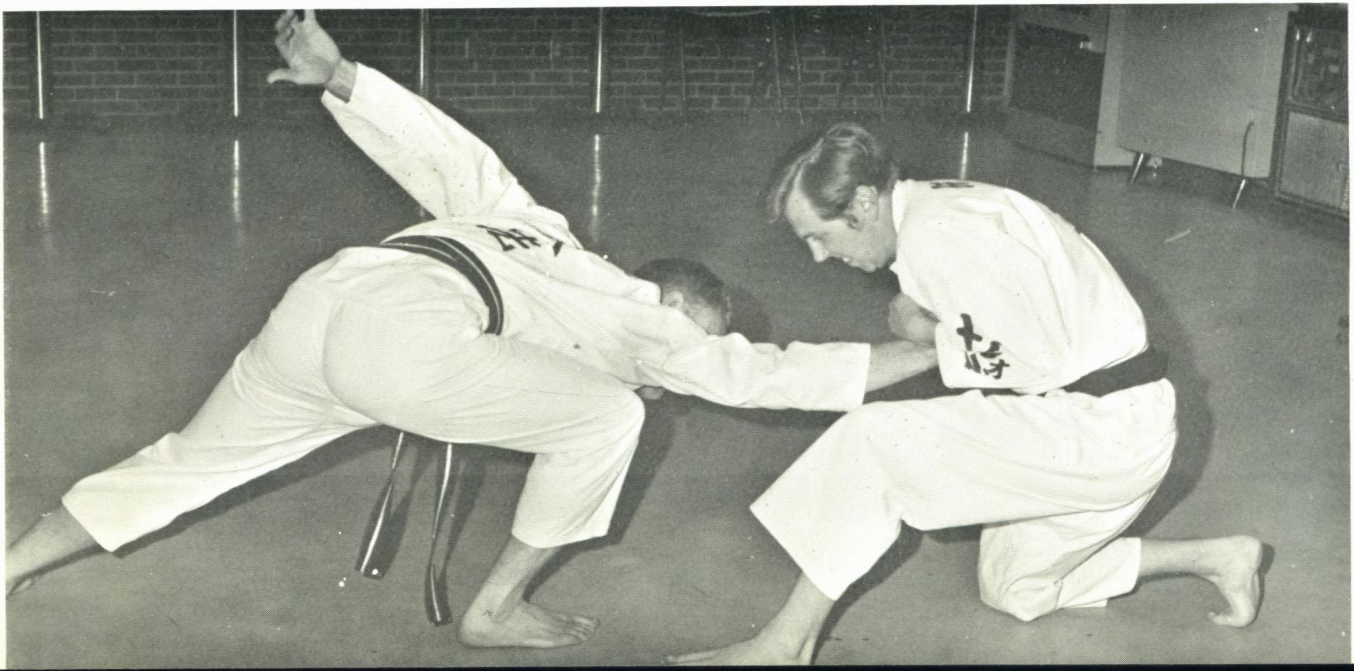

Membership in the class, which meets from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Saturdays, dropped from 18, initially, to only eight as the SPOKE went to press.

Students police campus

The campus patrol is a group of four criminal justice students whose responsibility it is to maintain the security of the campus grounds, equipment, and personnel. Organized in September 1969, and approved by the Board of Trustees, the student patrolmen take the place of the more usual night watchmen.

Besides providing for campus security, the program provides practical, on-the-job experience for criminal justice students. They are on duty from 5:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m. and from midnight to 7:00 a.m. week nights and twenty-four hours Saturday and Sunday.

The campus patrol has trained Eirik, the German shepherd sentry dog, and use him part-time on night patrol, after the campus has been cleared of evening division students and staff.

The supplement to the INTERROBANG, the CAMPUS DAILY, began its publication on Monday, April 13, 1970. Peggy Dowell, BCCJC student from Haviland, compiles and edits the news bulletin. It is a one-page paper, which comes out every morning. Contained in it is current school and local news, as well as the day's highlights from local, state, national, and international news.

Barton Players prove their talents

The first club to be organized on campus was the Barton College Players, in October of 1969, with about 50 members. To carry out their purpose of providing opportunities for students to participate in theatrical productions and to provide opportunities for the public to enjoy and appreciate theatre, they produced three plays in their first year.

The first production was the children's theatre project of "The Wizard of Oz" in December, followed in February by an old fashioned melodrama, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads, or Tempted, Tried, and True."

The final production of the year was the all-school drama project "David and Lisa" in April.

INTERROBANG: The student's own

The INTERROBANG, student newspaper of BCCJC, began publication October 16, 1969. Following basically an eight-page format, the paper is published every two weeks, excepting vacations, on Thursdays.

The newspaper, printed entirely on campus in the school print shop, attempts to provide the news of the college to the students and supporters of the school, as well as an assortment of editorials, columns, and features, including plentiful pictorial coverage of campus activities. Under the direction of the first managing editor, Sandra Lynn Corbitt, the INTERROBANG developed during the course of the year into an integral part of college life.

The name, INTERROBANG, comes from a punctuation mark which is a combination of a question mark (interro) and an exclamation point ("bang" in printer's jargon). It is meant to symbolize the news function of a newspaper through the exclamation point, and the questioning, investigative function through the question mark.

(5) Nancy Lindholm, News Editor, spends some time in the print shop.

First yearbook: A study in frustration

Even though an original decision had been made not to publish a yearbook the first year of the college's existence, a staff was selected to begin planning for the first book. When, in late October, the original decision was reversed, the staff changed its plans and began work on a publication to record the story of the beginning of a college.

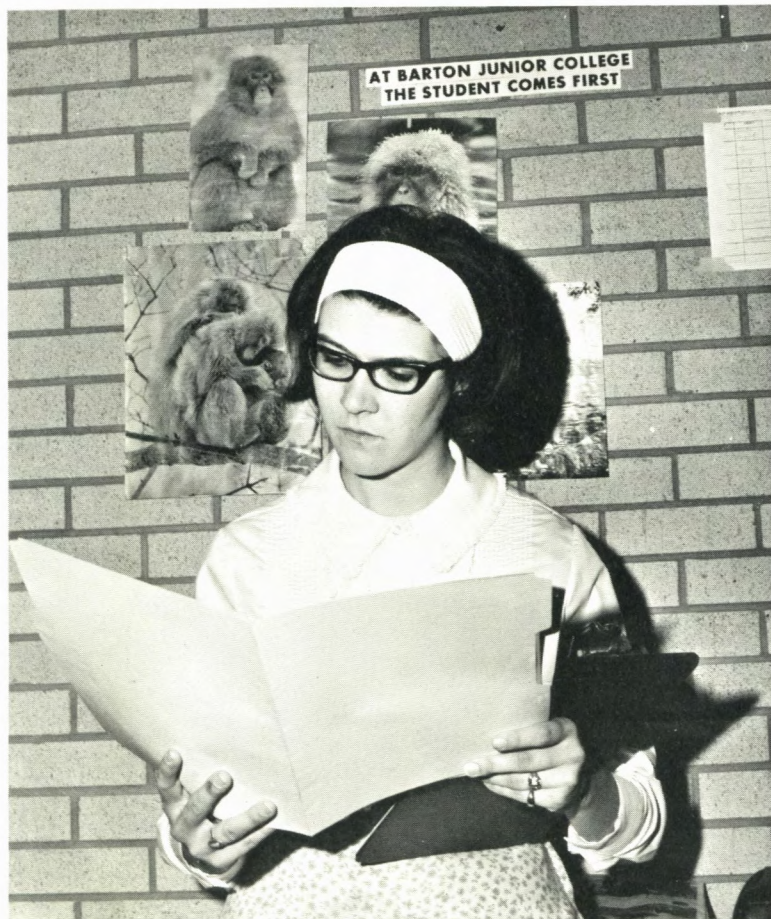

Under the direction of managing editor Lee Barlow and copy editor Celeste Prosser, the book began to take shape, with the thought that it, like the student newspaper, would be printed in the school print shop. However, pressure on the shop for production of a catalogue as well as the normal printing load of necessary school materials forced another change.

With an early April deadline facing them, the staff put together pictures and stories to commemorate the historical first year of the Bissell Point campus. Other students aiding in the publication were Debby Schonhoff and Joan Ochs.

Cheerleaders stir student emotions

Helping to boost our "Cougar Pride" was the lively squad of eight cheerleaders. The cheerleaders were selected by members of the faculty and the Student Senate in October. Those qualifying were Joan and Jan Weiser, Brenda Williams, Barbara Knobloch, Al Petz, Mark Hauser, Roger Switzer, and Kent Sallee. Alternates were Becky Miller, Nancy Lindholm, and Mary Lou Linenberger.

The twelve members of the first Barton County Community Junior College Basketball team concluded the 1969-70 season with an overall record of nine wins and nineteen losses, and a three win-eleven loss record in the Kansas Jayhawk Junior College Conference. The Cougar roundballers, coached by energetic Dick Nagy and Assistant Coach Jack Bowman, made a fine showing in their first year of play.

Track and field events involve many students

Before the SPOKE went to press, the BCCJC track team had not yet completed the season. The sixteen member group possessed a few outstanding trackmen. Jack Bowman coached and encouraged the track team, as well as the cross-country team. Though our track and cross-country teams failed to break any records, they made a fine showing for the first year of competition at Barton County Community Junior College.

Completed in the summer of 1969, the library is the center of the Barton County Community Junior College campus. The library has the capacity to hold sixty thousand volumes and 250 to 300 periodicals.

Among the facilities provided for the students are two seminar rooms, typing rooms with electric typewriters, cassette tape recorders, a microfiche reader-printer, open stacks, and a study skills center.

Students delve into Fine Arts

Barton County Community Junior College boasts of a fine Humanities department. Courses were offered in the areas of music, art, and literature.

Lectures and labs form science courses

Golf, bowling, and tennis were offered to the students at Barton College in order for them to begin fulfilling their Physical Education requirements. Other areas of the Life and Physical Sciences at BCCJC were chemistry, physical science, biology, and astronomy. A course that proved to be highly successful was the program of Associate Nursing. This program, being limited in the number of students it could handle, was the first course of study to be filled at BCCJC.

Rocket launch causes excitement

On March 4, 1969, the BCCJC Physics II class launched a model rocket to an altitude of 483 feet. The purpose of the project was to find "specific impulse, maximum thrust, and actual altitude attained." The project was carried out by the students with two faculty members acting as advisers. Math and Computers: Problem solvers

With a wide background in Math becoming more and more necessary in modern education, Barton County Community Junior College found it necessary to set up a large variety of Math courses to be available to the students. This selection of Math courses was also necessary for the computer programming curriculum. The study of computers was also a major program at the new Barton College.
